

TASKANNE

Anne Cartledge

WHAT SHE DOES | Adept at communication, organization and business matters, Anne's company has three branches: assisting and helping manage the affairs of aging seniors; serving busy professionals as a house manager; and supporting individuals through the transition process of divorce, separation, and losing loved ones.

HOW SHE LAUNCHED HER BUSINESS | "I have always been drawn to helping people through life transitions. I have served as a personal advocate, resource, house manager and notary, and I have a decade of experience assisting with legal matters," says Anne. "When I looked at all of my experience, starting a company to support others in these areas made sense."

HER SECRET WEAPONS | Resourcefulness and diplomacy. "I am very good at getting things done and caring for others," she says. "For aging seniors, I ensure no one is taken advantage of, help manage their property, hire contractors, pay bills and run errands. I also visit elderly family members in assisted living situations to ensure they are being cared for and their needs are being met. For busy executives, I come in and get their bills paid, manage service providers, run errands and manage their personal affairs. And for separating or widowed spouses, I save time and ease the burden of starting over in life. Overall, my goal is to give people peace of mind and keep them from being overwhelmed through life's transitions."

ADVICE FOR OTHER WOULD-BE ENTREPRENEURS | "Do something you're passionate about," says Anne. "It will grow your inner strength and bring you much joy!"
